COUNTY FAIR WILL OFFER VAUDEVILLE

Emphasis This Year Will Be More Than Ever Upon Entertainment, Board Says

Acknowledging that Theodore Roosevelt's declaration, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," is equally applicable to adults, members of the board of the El Dorado County Fair are embarked upon a search for high class entertainment to add to this year's fair program.

The county fair will be held August 22, 23 and 24 and all ready advance bookings of specialty entertainment have been made.

Chairman George E. Faugsted with Paul R. Smith, John Winkelmann and Cecil Barker were at Auburn Sunday and engaged some of the featured entertainers performing there to appear at the El Dorado County Fair.

"We have, necessarily, put emphasis in the past upon the exhibits," Chairman Faugsted said, "because that is what a fair is essentially for—to have exhibits of our county's products."

It isn't the board's intention to pay any less attention to the exhibits this year; but we are going to have some entertainment, too;—more than we have ever had before at a county fair.

We have several high class vaudeville attractions all ready booked and we are going to get more. The program for the fair is still in a tentative state so that we can't say just how the entertainment will be presented, but you can put it down in your notebook that we're going to have some fun and some entertainment along with the biggest and best exhibits we have ever had."

Patterson Tops Single Bowlers

Vern Bartell, Leo Barrett Hold Substantial Lead In Doubles Championship

It is hard to tell what may happen Thursday and Friday night, but judging from the results Tuesday night the El Dorado County Bowling Championship is producing some high class kegling for less than a full year of the sport in El Dorado County.

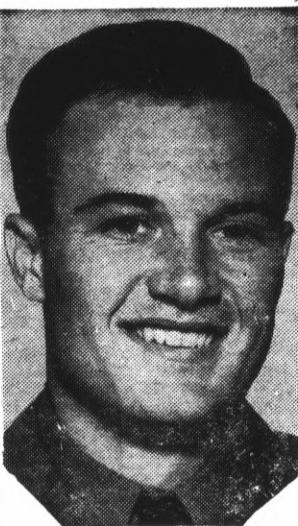

Dick Patterson tops the singles list on the basis of play thus far with a 695 and Ernest Hanley is in second spot with 683.

Hanley is first in the all-events total with 1974 and Leo Barrett, who rolled one 244 game to become high singles man of the tournament to date, is second with 1963.

In the doubles, Vern Bartell and Leo Barrett rolled 626 and 632 respectively from scratch which, with their handicap, gave them 1414 and the doubles lead.

Second place in the doubles is held N. Wade and E. Collins, with a 1,299 total, which gives Bartell and Barrett a comfortable margin until Thursday night.

JULY 1 SHIFT IN SHERIFF'S OFFICE

George Morgan Resigns As Junior Deputy; Le Bourveau Will Be His Successor

George Morgan, junior deputy in the sheriff's office, has tendered his resignation effective July 1 and will be replaced by D. W. Le Bourveau, who has resigned as a member of the city police force.

Mr. Morgan announced Wednesday morning that he has purchased a general merchandising business in Georgetown and that the move will afford him the opportunity he has been seeking for some time to return to his home on the North Side.

Morgan declared his relations with fellow officers during his term in the sheriff's office have been most pleasant and that he has enjoyed the work and would have chosen to remain in the office except for the opportunity to return to his home at Georgetown.

Sheriff George M. Smith commended Morgan's work in the office and expressed regret at his decision to make the change. There was some report that Mr. Morgan would retain his star as a deputy sheriff and would function in the Georgetown district.

The sheriff named City Traffic Officer D. W. Le Bourveau as Morgan's successor.

Chief of Police Ralph W. Jones affirmed Wednesday morning that Officer Le Bourveau had tendered his resignation. Chief Jones said that he hopes that in making the change Le Bourveau will find his police experience of benefit to him and that he will do well in his new field of law enforcement.

Le Bourveau said that the appointment as deputy sheriff comes as the fulfillment of hopes he has had for several years.

"In the police work I have tried to do a difficult job in the best way I knew how, and it is a hard job," he said. "I have enjoyed it every minute and have appreciated the public co-operation I have received."

"The opportunity to join the staff in the sheriff's office opens up a new field in law enforcement for me and I hope that my relations in the new job will continue to be as pleasant with all as they have been during my tour of duty with the city."

This trend, the association stated, reflects both seasonal fluctuations in demands for unemployment relief and the increase in employment generally.

"Any guess as to the number of employable unemployed persons who will be depending on public relief during the coming year would be a hazardous undertaking," the Taxpayers' association declared. "The number of people employed all throughout the United States is increasing steadily and California has a large share of the defense industries which are using large numbers of men and women."

The first witness in his own defense, Park admitted that he had met the complaining witness as he had been previously explained by her and said he had thought to take her home.

He said his car was headed out Sacramento Street and he kept on going until he reached the Diamond Springs vicinity before he asked her where she lived and he said that prior to that he did not know where she lived.

The girl, he said, jumped from the car and ran across a field without cause or explanation and he called to her and waited for her to return to the car.

It was indicated as court recessed Wednesday noon that the jury would be taken during the afternoon to inspect Park's car, in which the attack is alleged to have taken place, and to make a tour of the route said to have been taken by the car the night in question. The former move was a defense motion, the latter a motion by the prosecution.

Tuesday afternoon the state called Ann Lucille Hall, Richard O. Hall, Helen Gans, Ralph Jone, D. W. Le Bourveau and Dr. Jean Babcock as witnesses. Resuming Wednesday morning the state called Steve Fairover, Earl H. McColl and Dr. W. A. Reckers, and rested at 10:50 o'clock.

Following the business hour of the next meeting Tuesday, July 1, there will be a pie social. All Grangers are welcome. —Gerda Barton.

NEEDY JOBLESS LIST DECLINES

Number On County Roll As Of May 31 Only 63 Per Cent Of Total For Year Before

The number of needy unemployed persons receiving aid under the SRA in El Dorado county on May 31 was 63 per cent of what it was one year before, on May 31, 1940, California Taxpayers' association stated today, analyzing the trend of the SRA case load in California counties during the past year.

During the year, SRA cases in the county at the end of each quarter were as follows: 58 on May 31, 1940; 22 on August 31; 61 on November 30; 91 on February 28, 1941; and 24 at the end of May of this year, the association found.

If the number of SRA cases in the county at May 31, 1940, is considered as 100 the trend in the number of cases in the county receiving aid from the SRA at the end of each 3-month period during the year is as follows: May 31, 1940, 100; August 31, 58; November 30, 161; February 28, 1941, 238; May 31, 63.

This trend, the association stated, reflects both seasonal fluctuations in demands for unemployment relief and the increase in employment generally.

"Any guess as to the number of employable unemployed persons who will be depending on public relief during the coming year would be a hazardous undertaking," the Taxpayers' association declared. "The number of people employed all throughout the United States is increasing steadily and California has a large share of the defense industries which are using large numbers of men and women."

Women Bowlers Force Lodi

Team To Show Real Class

Although bowling is less than a year old in El Dorado County, a picked team from the women's league in the county association journeyed to Lodi Tuesday evening and almost came back with Lodi's scalp.

Not that it was a hair-pulling! Far from it!

But the Lodi women had been bowling for three years and they were lucky to get out with a three-game margin of forty-one pins over the El Dorado County five.

"We think we did real well for our first time out," said Verna Coplin, secretary of the women's league. "We've never bowed in a tournament before and although we lost the match, the margin of forty-one pins is a compliment to the progress the girls have made in less than a year of bowling."

MOSCOW REPORTS SLAUGHTER OF TEN BARGE LOADS OF NAZIS CROSSING RIVER

Soviet And Nazi War Claims Conflict, But Paint Picture Of Major Conflict Raging Intensely Along 1,250-Mile Front

LONDON, (UP)—Radio Moscow said today in the early morning hours enemy troops under cover of fog crossed "a wide river," presumably the Pruth, in 10 barges but were driven back with huge losses.

"The attempt to surprise the Russian defenses failed," the radio broadcast said.

"The Russians waited until the Germans were close and then poured a withering fire into the Nazis.

Many Germans fell. The Russians followed up with a bayonet attack. Most of the Germans were killed or taken prisoners, including two officers."

By UNITED PRESS

Soviet Russia today reported furious fighting in which Nazi armed forces were hurled back at the gateway to the Ukraine and on five other fronts, but from Adolf Hitler's headquarters came a statement that "great successes" were imminent for the German army.

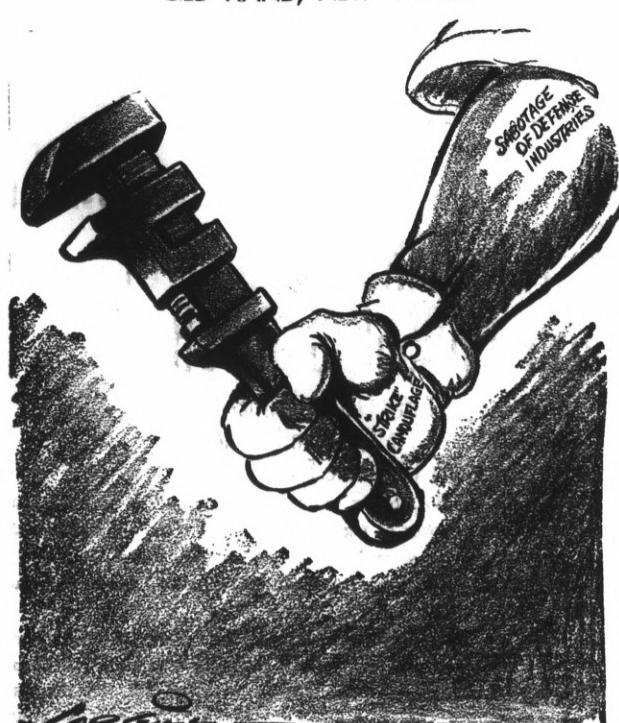

Only on one point were both the Nazi and Soviet reports agreed—that two of the world's biggest armies were coming to grips in a conflict that raged intensely along a 1,250 mile front.

On the south, the Russians reported that they had used one of Hitler's favorite weapons—diver bombers—in conjunction with thundering cavalry charges to turn back a Nazi-Rumanian mechanized drive across the Pruth river north of Galati with heavy losses. Cernauti still is firmly held by the Russians, according to Moscow, while Rome relayed reports that the Red army had vainly attempted

CHAPTER XXXII
WHEN Kenneth had overheard Isolde's phone conversation—he had heard her say, "Follow the singer if he leaves before I get there. Never mind the girl"—he had been sure she was referring to Barry and Julie. It hooked up with her statement, a few minutes before that Julie was with Barry this evening.

How had she known? And who was the mysterious person who had phoned her? Kenneth could not imagine. But his face was grimly set as he followed her in a taxi after she left the hotel.

He scowled out of the window of the moving cab. There were a lot of things he didn't understand. Why, for instance, was she so intent on getting in touch with Barry Caldwell? She had insistently referred to him, just now, as "that Western tramp," yet here she was, dashing off to meet him the moment she learned where he was.

The whole thing was too baffling for Kenneth. None of it made sense.

He saw Isolde's taxi, ahead swerve in toward the curb in front of the Poll Parrot. He leaned forward and spoke to his driver.

"Pull in behind," he directed.

He waited until Isolde had entered the restaurant, then climbed out of his cab and followed her.

As he stepped inside the Poll Parrot, he saw her standing in the doorway of the dining room, talking to the headwaiter. The waiter pointed toward an alcove in the dining room. Isolde gave him a folded bill, then moved slowly toward the alcove.

A MOMENT later, Kenneth had hold of the headwaiter's arm.

"What did she ask you?" he demanded.

The man tried to back away. "I don't know what you mean. Who are you?"

"Never mind who I am! What information did that girl give you for?"

"That's a private matter." The headwaiter drew himself up with dignity. "I cannot discuss."

"You'll discuss this all right!" Kenneth held up a fist threateningly. "Start talking before I bust you one!"

"The lady asked me about the singer—Mr. Caldwell," the waiter stuttered. "This is an outrage and..."

"And you're going to tell me all about it." Kenneth's grip on the man's arm tightened. "Go ahead! Is he in that alcove you pointed out?"

"Yes. He is in there with a reporter."

"What about the girl who was with Mr. Caldwell?"

The waiter's eyes widened. "Ghrl? I know nothing of a girl. Unless you might mean the one that caused all the trouble."

"What trouble?"

"The police. The girl who kidnapped the accompanist so she could play for Mr. Caldwell."

Kenneth turned away in disgust. He decided the man was crazy and there was no use trying to get anything more out of him. He would go and confront Barry Caldwell.

AS HE started into the dining room, he caught a snatch of conversation between two men standing just inside the doorway. Julie's name! He stopped and listened.

"...that's her name," one of the men was saying. "Julie Hamilton. The manager says the police identified her from a label on the clothes she left in Madame Gulliver's apartment after as-

"Boiler Kid" and His Baby

Start Reading Aloud to Child When Very Young

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

• Every now and then in this column I have urged parents to read to the baby and young child. More at length, I have discussed this matter in Books and Babies. I can think of no finer means of good home education.

The child who, long before he enters school, has enjoyed listening raptly to the reading of stories he has heard over and over again in exactly the same language, has been exercised in good habits of concentration. Also he has gained patterns of expression. This experience should prove very valuable to him at school.

I have urged also that parents

read to the child "even long past the time he enters school."

True, an occasional child, if read to so late, will choose to listen rather than to employ the effort to read to himself. What he may then like to hear read will be in language and meaning, far more advanced than the books from which he gets his reading lessons.

Spurs Child's Efforts

My three children were enjoying stories of fifth and sixth grade level when they entered school, and two of the three lagged in learning to read in the first two grades—good readers four or five years later.

But we kept on reading to them. They found things in these books so interesting that they soon were willing to dig them out for themselves when there was nobody on hand to read to them. Sometimes we would read part of an old favorite, whose vocabulary was easy, and find occasion to be "too busy to finish it." Then the impatient youngster would read it to himself.

Dr. Josephine Fester, Principal of Nursery School and Kindergarten, at Minnesota University, author of "Busy Childhood" and other excellent books for teachers and parents, suggests that I discuss in my column "reading aloud to children after they are old enough to read for themselves."

"In my experience," writes Dr.

and Shenandoah-Willow Springs Granges. Following our business hour and luncheon, several guessing contests were enjoyed by all. The mystery box was won by Alma Updike.

Our next meeting will be held with the Gold Train H. E. July 15. All Grange ladies welcome and urged to come. A picnic lunch will be held at the Marshall Monument.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Why are parents so often warned against making threats?

A. Because they so often, when they threaten, don't intend to carry out the threat. Threats carefully chosen and enforced can be very effective and keep the child from certain wrong conduct. Practically all laws are threats; they tell you what will happen if you do so and so. If this always did happen there would be very little violation of the law, very little crime.

GRIZZLY FLAT NEWS NOTES

There was a community picnic at the Mountain school house on Sunday, June 22. There was a program prepared by the school under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. Vivian Watson, which included songs, recitations and tonette numbers and featured a unit on Famous Flags of America. The children had colored flags beginning with the pre-Revolution Union Jack and including the Continental Flag of Bunker Hill, the Cambridge or first Navy ensign, the first national flag with a circle of stars, the Fort McHenry flag of 15 stars and 15 stripes, the Confederate battle flag, California state flag, and the present flag. These were presented with the stories connected with them. Miss Margaret Morey graciously accompanied the songs and instrumental numbers on the piano which greatly added to the enjoyment of them. After the program everyone surrounded the picnic table in the yard and partook of a bountiful dinner of salad, sandwiches, cake and ice cream. After dinner, baseball and horseshoe pitching filled the time until late in the afternoon.

Moscow Reports Nazi Attack

German automotive products cost twice as much in Switzerland as those of American origin, the Department of Commerce reports.

Sea and attack the rich Russian oil fields would be attempted.
Russian airplanes concentrated on bombing attacks on Rumanian bases on the south, including Constanza and Galata, which was reported in flames.

British claimed increasing command of the air over occupied France and hammered with increasing force at such targets as Cologne, Duesseldorf, and Kiel—all of which were raided again last night.

After July, Brazilian truck and bus operators must equip one in every ten vehicles with gas-burning mechanism, says the Department of Commerce.

THE labor unions have made their demands upon the railways of the United States—and through the railways upon the PUBLIC. These demands are vastly larger in proportion than any they have ever made. The economical and efficient operation of the railways is vital to the nation's defense effort. Therefore, the Western Railways present to the public the following facts:

The labor unions representing engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen are demanding a 30 per cent increase in wages, amounting to 190 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay are the highest in history.

Other unions representing a greater number of railway employees are demanding wage increases ranging as high as 95 per cent—averaging 47 per cent—and amounting to 580 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay also are the highest in history.

Thus the wage increases being demanded by the labor unions amount to 770 million dollars a year, an average increase in excess of 41 per cent.

In addition, certain of these labor unions have demanded advances in their pay not included in the above figures, and more rules for the creation of unnecessary jobs.

The situation, then, is this: The total cost of complying with all the demands made would be approximately 900 million dollars a year!

The average weekly earnings of railway employees are now 15 per cent higher than in the peak year 1929, while the cost of living is 12 per cent less.

The demands of the railway labor unions are being made when the entire nation has just been asked to make a supreme effort for National Defense.

The railways cannot meet these demands without a great increase in the cost of transportation. They exceed by more than 700 million dollars the income that the railways had left after paying their annual expenses, taxes and charges in 1940.

The railways have a vitally important job before them. They need all their resources to continue adequately to serve you and contribute effectively toward the National Defense Program.
